

Figure 2. Daily mean discharge for water year 2000 compared with the percentile distribution of daily mean discharges for the period of record, for selected stream-gaging stations. Daily mean discharges equal to or greater than the 25th percentile and equal to or less than the 75th percentile are within the normal range of flow.